I Heart Indie Holidays comes back in 2009 with a smaller, more focused show in downtown Kirkland.

On Sunday November 29th, I Heart Indie Holidays 2009 will premiere as the Eastside's FIRST Indie Holiday Craft Show. Innovative, artistic and crafty vendors from the Pacific Northwest will give Eastside visitors a shopping experience like no other. Hosted at the Lake Street Bar & Nightclub, shoppers will be able to enjoy cocktails, a full service food menu, and a live DJ all while browsing the unique handmade goodness on display. Show opens at 11am and runs until 6pm, but get there early&hellip; because the first 25 customers get a crafty-licious holiday swag bag!

I Heart Indie Holidays made its debut in 2007 as a triple-threat holiday show spanning three weekends and three cities around the Pacific Northwest. After a one year hiatus, I Heart Indie Holidays is back to bring indie-fever to the Eastside!

I Heart Indie Holidays is put together by the folks at I Heart Rummage, Seattle's longest-running, indie craft event. This holiday season I Heart Rummage and I Heart Indie Holidays will be partnering with the Bellevue Art Museum to bring in-your-face crafty demos to the BAM's screening of the indie craft revolution's film masterpiece, "Handmade Nation".

So shop local and buy handmade, make this holiday season a craft-acular one!
